

VEDANTA: AFTER DEMERGER DATA

Vedanta Demerger – Market Capitalisation Analysis

1. Demerged Entity-wise Market Data

Company	Business Segment	Share Price (₹)	Market Capitalisation (₹ Cr.)
Vedanta Aluminium Metal Ltd (VAML)	Aluminium	522.00	1,94,060.83
Vedanta Oil & Gas Ltd (VOGL)	Oil & Gas	38.00	14,116.50
Vedanta Iron & Steel Ltd (VISL)	Iron & Steel	20.00	8,235.28
Vedanta Power Ltd (VPL)	Power	41.80	16,736.46
Vedanta Ltd	Residual entity (Hindustan Zinc stake & investments)	313.15	1,20,420.40
Total Group Market Capitalisation			3,53,569.47

2. Market Capitalisation Split

Company	Market Cap (₹ Cr.)	Contribution to Total Market Cap
Vedanta Aluminium Metal Ltd	1,94,060.83	54.89%
Vedanta Ltd	1,20,420.40	34.05%
Vedanta Power Ltd	16,736.46	4.73%
Vedanta Oil & Gas Ltd	14,116.50	3.99%
Vedanta Iron & Steel Ltd	8,235.28	2.33%
Total	3,53,569.47	100.00%

3. Key Observations

- Vedanta Aluminium Metal Ltd is the largest entity post demerger, contributing ~55% of the total group market capitalisation, indicating strong investor confidence in the aluminium business.

- The residual Vedanta Ltd contributes ~34% of the group value, supported primarily by its investments including the stake in Hindustan Zinc.
- Power, Oil & Gas, and Iron & Steel businesses together account for ~11% of the total group valuation.
- The combined market capitalisation of all demerged entities is approximately ₹3.54 lakh crore.

Entity	Business	Estimated Net Debt (₹ Cr.)	Net Debt/ EBITDA	Financial Profile
Vedanta Aluminium Metal Ltd (VAML)	Aluminium	~32,700	<1.3x	Strong Financial Profile. Despite carrying the largest debt allocation due to its capital-intensive nature, the business has strong EBITDA generation, large scale operations and healthy cash flows, resulting in comfortable leverage.
Vedanta Ltd (Residual Entity)	Zinc, Silver & Base Metals Investments	~9,300	~0.4x	Very Strong Financial Profile. Low leverage supported by the high-margin Hindustan Zinc stake and stable cash-generating base metals business.
Vedanta Power Ltd (VPL)	Thermal Power Generation	~7,500	~4.7x	Moderately High Risk Profile. It is expected to be the most leveraged entity post-demerger, and future deleveraging will depend on improved plant utilisation, long-term PPAs and stable operating performance.
Vedanta Iron & Steel Ltd (VISL)	Iron Ore & Steel	~3,900*	Not Disclosed	Cyclical Business Profile. The business is exposed to steel price cycles; however, debt allocation is expected to be manageable relative to its operating scale.
Vedanta Oil & Gas Ltd (VOGL)	Oil & Gas Exploration & Production	Nil	0.0x	Strongest Balance Sheet. A debt-free structure provides high financial flexibility and allows cash flows to be utilised for growth, exploration and shareholder returns.

Overall Investor Takeaway

- VAML and Residual Vedanta (~89% of total market value) are expected to remain the primary value creators.
- VOGL has the strongest balance sheet, while VPL carries the highest financial risk.
- The demerger enables investors to select exposure based on their preferred risk–return profile.